GRAND JURY URGES GOVERNOR TO CALL SESSION ON BEER

Resolution Asks Talmadge
To Request Legislators

STATE'S EXECUTIVE MAINTAINS SILENCE

Talmadge Declines To Commit Himself; Atlanta Bootlegger Prepares To "Run" Beer.

As the Fulton county grand jury Tuesday went on record as favoring a special session of the general assembly to consider legalization of beer, it was learned authoritatively that a prominent Atlanta bootlegger has abandoned his liquor trade and has purchased four giant trucks with which he will move beer into the city from Chattanooga immediately after Tennessee begins sale of the beverage. The name of the man who plans to go into the beer business here on a wide scale was not revealed, but information also was to the effect that other bootleggers who have suffered greatly during the depression also will make an attempt to run beer into the city.

The resolution adopted by the Fulton grand jury requests the governor to appeal to the general assembly to serve without pay during a short session to handle beer legislation. The grand jury resolution sets out that beer will be legalized in our neighboring states and that Georgia will suffer if the beverage is not legalized here also.

After the resolution was drafted a committee headed by Stratton Hard, foreman, and Edgar Dunlap, secretary, carried the resolution to the state capital and to the chambers of the governor. It was learned, however, that the governor was in conference and the resolution was left with his secretary and not presented in person.

Meanwhile Governor Eugene Talmadge remained silent on the beer question, refusing to answer all questions regarding the special session. A

Mt. Everest Aviators Fly Over Kanchenjunga

By E. C. SHEPHERD,
Copyright, 1933, The North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

PURNEA, India, April 4.—(By Wireless.)—The successful flight over Mount Everest was followed today by a flight by two machines over Kanchenjunga, only less successful photographically because a fog start was made and had begun to form over the mountains.

The pilots were Air Commodore P. F. M. Fellowes, leader of the expedition, and Flying Officer Ellison, with A. L. Fisher and S. R. Bennett, cinematographers of the expedition, as observers.

Some anxiety was caused here by the failure of Commander Fellowes to return at the end of the flight. For three hours there was no word from Commander Fellowes. At last a telegram announced that Commander Fellowes had landed at Dinajpur 60 miles east of here, and asked for petrol.

Van Paassen Is Beaten By Nazis at Munich

PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Coincidental with the arrival by mail of Pierre Van Paassen's latest report on the anti-Semitic campaign in Germany, a dispatch was received Tuesday by The Constitution telling of an attack by Nazi policemen on Mr. Van Paassen. He formerly was on the local staff of The Constitution, to which he contributes a daily column, and now is one of Europe's best-known American journalists. Below is the account of the beating he received in Munich, followed by his own report on the situation in Germany.

TORONTO, April 4.—(By the Canadian Press.)—The Toronto Star reports that Pierre Van Paassen, European correspondent for The Atlanta Constitution and several Canadian newspapers, who recently has been telling of scenes in Germany in connection with alleged German persecution of Jews, was recently "beaten up" and thrown into jail for a few hours.

"While in a Munich restaurant," the Star says, "on his way out of Germany, he was seized by a band of brown shirts, badly beaten up, marched, bleeding, before local police, thrown into prison for a few hours and then released with instructions that he had better keep quiet about what had happened to him."

Van Paassen bled profusely. The enraged Nazis promptly inflicted another beating "for staining the floor of the police station with his dirty blood."

Still another beating occurred just before Van Paassen was set free by the police sergeant to whom he showed his properly stamped passport and credentials. Van Paassen was admonished by the Nazis to "forget what took place," and to the crowd which had gathered outside the police station at the time of his beating, it was explained that they had arrested a "Russian spy."

VAN PAASSEN DESCRIBES SCENES OF TORTURE

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

ZURICH, March 27.—(By Mail.)—There is no precedent in history for the terror that rages in Germany today. The frightful bloodbaths of medieval St. Bartholomew and the Sicilian Vespers pale in comparison with the horrors that are being perpetrated today on defenseless human beings by the fiendish bands of nazism. When I wrote a week before the elections that the world would stand aghast if Hitler's power were consolidated, I could not have dreamed that

GEORGIA WILL GET JOBLESS CAMPS

State's Congressmen Join in Move To Obtain Emergency Forest Units.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, April 4.—After a series of conferences today with officials of the national forestry service and department of labor, Representative John S. Wood was given assurance that the state of Georgia would be allotted one or more of the emergency camps provided for under the recently enacted administration reforestation legislation.

In his efforts to have Georgia selected for one or more of the camps, Representative Wood has been joined actively by Senator Walter F. George, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., and Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, together with other members of the state congressional group.

Representative Wood spent several hours today in conference with R. Y. Stuart, chief of the forest service of the department of agriculture. Later he called at the department of labor for further conferences. At both departments he was told that while final plans were yet to be worked out for the administration of the act, Georgia stood an excellent chance of getting two or more of the camps.

HITLER ABANDONS BOYCOTT REVIVAL

Ban Not To Be Renewed
If Atrocities Stories Cease, Government Declares.

BERLIN, April 4.—(AP)—The anti-Semitic boycott will not be resumed tomorrow, the government announced today, but the Nazi party reserved the right to start the movement again if the "atrocities campaign" is revived abroad.

The boycott originally was called by the party rather than by the government itself. At the last moment Chancellor Adolf Hitler's cabinet stepped in, decreeing that Jewish restrictive measures should be limited to last Saturday and leaving the question of resumption tomorrow dependent on the cessation of foreign protests and reports concerning anti-Jewish atrocities in Germany.

George A. Gordon, the American charge d'affaires, communicated with the foreign office today concerning charges disseminated by the Pan-German press service that "an atrocity list factory has been set up in the American consulate general."

This service is edited by two Nazis. Continued in Page 8, Column 5.

ROOSEVELT PLANS BEFORE CONGRESS PROCEED SLOWLY

Senate Takes Up Five-
Day Week Bill; House
Sidetracks Unemployment Relief Measure.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's emergency legislative program jolted over a rough and bumpy road in congress today as the senate debated the Black five-day week bill and the house sidetracked the administration's $500,000,000 unemployment relief measure.

The chief executive's far-reaching plan for refinancing the nation's gigantic farm indebtedness, proposed in a special message yesterday, was advanced, however, in committees at both ends of the capital.

It was approved by the senate agriculture committee together with the Roosevelt farm relief bill, designed to raise the price of farm commodities through the application of a number of alternative plans.

A senate banking subcommittee, however, eliminated a $500,000,000 fund for loans to irrigation, levee and drainage districts.

Security Bill Delayed.
Hearings still delayed action in house and senate committees on the administration bill to regulate the sale of securities and it was headed for revision in both houses.

Democratic leaders in the senate announced, meanwhile, they would amend the house bill prohibiting publication of secret diplomatic codes in order to insure protection of the freedom of the press. The measure was referred to the foreign relations committee for consideration tomorrow.

Investigations seemed to be the order of the day, rather than legislation. While demands came from many directions for investigation of the Akron disaster, the senate granted sweeping power to its banking committee for an inquiry into private banking. The senate judiciary committee also voted for an investigation of delay in prosecuting Joseph W. Harrison, New York broker.

The senate decided to continue tomorrow with consideration of the five-day week, six-hour day legislation and agreed to limit debate in order to speed action on it.

Canneries Excluded.
During the day an amendment was adopted with the consent of the house, to exclude from provisions of the bill canneries and other processors of perishable foods. Another amendment to exclude newspapers was offered by Senator Tydings, democrat, Maryland.

Senator Robinson, democratic leader, said he may propose tomorrow an amendment to limit the bill to 35 or 36 hours a week, and predicted the measure would pass in that form. From Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, meanwhile, came a proposal to repeal the two-year limitation on the bill.

After the senate's decision to continue with the 30-hour week measure, its agriculture committee voted a unanimous favor report on the administration's board farm relief plan, with the refinancing measure as an amendment.

The refinancing measure was introduced in the house by Chairman Jones of the agriculture committee, who announced that hearings would be opened later this week. The house has Beer by May 1st Legalized by N. C.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 4.—(AP)—Beer of 3.2 per cent alcoholic content today was legalized in North Carolina effective May 1.

The house passed the Francis bill on final reading after making minor changes in the measure and the senate concurred in all the amendments. The governor of North Carolina does not have the veto power.

S. C. SENATE GROUP FAVORS 3.2 BEER, WINE

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 4.—(AP)—After a noisy hearing on beer legislation, the senate finance committee tonight voted overwhelmingly in favor of legislation to legalize 3.2 per cent beer and wines in South Carolina. More than 750 persons crowded the house hall this afternoon to hear beer advocate urge that South Carolina "keep in step" with national legalization of beer and gain revenue for schools by a beer tax.

The house, 10 days ago, passed, 63 to 39, a bill for beer and light wines.

WISCONSIN JOINS WITH MICHIGAN IN VOTING REPEAL

Popular Vote 4 to 1 in Early Count; Michigan
Delegates Are 99 to 1 for Repeal.

MILWAUKEE, April 4.—(AP)—Prohibition repeal was leading by a margin of more than 4 to 1 when returns from 315 precincts of Wisconsin's 2,800 had been counted after today's referendum. The vote was: For repeal, 55,602; against, 13,802. The vote was from the rural sections, with the wet urban polls closing late and the count progressing slowly.

All sections of Wisconsin reported heavy balloting as the state selected 15 delegates to a constitutional convention to pass on a proposal to repeal the amendment barring the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor.

Wet leaders claimed all 15 delegates would be from the list they sponsored pledged to vote for the amendment's repeal. Mrs. Charles Sabin, head of followers only the meager hope that they expected a strong vote in some of the western districts of the state.

Michigan's election Monday brought out a total vote of close to 1,000,000 with 99 out of the 100 delegates to that state's convention named from repeal proponents. Only one dry delegate was definitely chosen, from rural Barry county.

Michigan's cities and populous centers all voted heavily for repeal. Detroit selected 21 wet delegates by a margin of almost 10 to 1.

The sweeping Michigan victory brought predictions from one repeal leader, Mrs. Charles Sabin, head of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, that ratification of the proposed repeal of the 18th amendment would be completed within 18 months. Mrs. Sabin conceded but three states to the dry banner—Arkansas, Oklahoma and Kansas—and listed as doubtful five—Georgia, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska and Tennessee. She said Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont were "hopeful" for the wet cause and that the rest of the states would follow the lead of Michigan.

MICHIGAN DELEGATION TO BE 99 TO 1 WET

DETROIT, April 4.—(AP)—Barring a complete reversal of the trend shown in incomplete returns from six districts, there will be a lone dry delegate among the 100 delegates to Michigan's constitutional convention assembled next Monday to ratify the amendment repealing national prohibition.

It seemed a certainty tonight that Barry county alone had chosen a dry delegate in yesterday's election—the first referendum ever to be held on repeal of an amendment to the federal constitution and the first effective expression of popular sentiment on the 18th amendment. The other 99 are pledged to repeal.

Fears expressed by some wet leaders that the election of delegates by legislative districts would be a handicap to their cause proved groundless. The convention proportionately will be even "wetter" than the popular majority which, with all but 500 of

Atlanta Youth Saved By Transfer to Macon

Franklin Carroll, 22-year-old Atlanta, a member of the crew of the Akron for four years, was saved from almost certain death in the airship's crash by having been transferred last December to the crew of the new ship, the Macon.

Carroll is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Carroll, of Mansfield, and is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Will G. Moore, of 935 Greenwood avenue.

Carroll, who resided in Atlanta until he enlisted in the navy a little more than four years ago, was a member of the original crew of the Akron as second machinist's mate. Upon re-enlistment last December he was assigned to the crew of the Macon. His father is widely known in the insurance business, and his uncle is a well-known Atlanta lawyer.

Description of Tragedy Given by Lt. Com. Wiley

WILLIAM T. HILL, JEFFERSON, GA., LOST WITH AKRON.

By R. H. HIPPELHEUSER.

NEW YORK, April 4.—(AP)—In a faded bathrobe, with a pair of borrowed pajamas about his tall, bulky figure, Lieutenant Commander H. V. Wiley, second in command of the giant navy dirigible Akron, stood on the steps of the United States naval hospital in Brooklyn late today and recounted the night of storm and terror that apparently brought death to 73 of his shipmates.

In what he termed "my own interview," the lieutenant commander emphatically said that in his opinion the Akron was not struck by lightning, and added that there was no fire aboard the craft.

There was a possibility, he said, that the ship was struck by lightning without his knowledge "as there was plenty of lightning all around us."

The officer was calm as he talked. The lobby of the hospital was filled with patients and attendants as he related his views of the tragedy.

"We left Lakehurst at about 7:30 p. m., last night on a regularly scheduled flight," he said.

"One object of the flight was to calibrate wireless direction finding stations in New England."

Wiley said that calibration of the New England stations could not begin until it was daylight and, as it was foggy, it was decided to cruise inland, where the ground could be seen.

Hints of Sabotage To Be Among Matters Run
Down in Probes.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(AP)—The falls of the majestic Akron and the J-3 from the skies to the waters, known as the Akron disaster, a national tonight to determination for full investigation.

Indignation manifest in congressional quarters was tempered by grief for the many lost, and a desire to wait to see what facts are disclosed before any judgment is passed.

From President Roosevelt through official ranks and to the lesser citizenry, the dir was one of breathless waiting in a vain hope of tidings that Admiral William A. Moffett and others of the many missing had been saved.

SEARCHING BLIMP FALLS INTO OCEAN, KILLING TWO MORE

Widespread Search Fails
To Locate Wreck of Largest Airship But

2 INVESTIGATIONS BEING PLANNED

Congressman Vinson
Says U. S. Will Build No
More Aerial Giants.
Navy Heads Silent.

By the Associated Press.

Crashing in a blinding storm, the United States navy dirigible Akron was demolished in the Atlantic early Tuesday and today it was believed 73 officer and men had been killed.

Four of the personnel were rescued but one, the radio operator, died. Only one body has been found.

Navy officials had little hope of finding any of the missing alive, but were ready at sunrise to press the search by air and water over a wide area to recover bodies and any of the men who might possibly have survived many hours in the cold water.

Flying to the scene off the coast of New Jersey, the United States navy non-rigid dirigible J-3 also fell into the ocean. Five of the crew of seven were rescued but the commander, who was found in the sea, died later and the body of a member of the crew was recovered.

Airport officials at Floyd Bennett field at New York announced Tuesday night they had received word from the fleet of navy "hell diver" planes which was coming the vicinity of the Akron crash that they had located one of their own planes previously reported missing.

One of the two planes which Monday flew over Mount Everest was forced down in an attempt to fly over a nearby peak. First reports said none was killed.

The small French dirigible E-9 was forced to land in France, injuring two.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics, was aboard the Akron and was missing, as was Commander Frank C. McCord, in charge of the dirigible, and 16 other officers. Lieutenant Commander Herbert V. Wiley, second in command of the Akron and the only officer rescued, declared the dirigible began to lose altitude in the storm, falling despite the release of more ballast. Then it lost its control rudder and was demolished as it hit the sea.

A naval court of inquiry was assembled and a congressional investigation was understood as certain.

Chairman Vinson of the house naval committee said "there won't be any more big airships built—we've built three, and lost two."

Secretary of the Navy Swanson said "it is still too early to outline the navy's future policy on aircraft."

President Roosevelt described the crash of the Akron as a "national tragedy," and sent Assistant Secretary of the Navy Henry Latrobe

THREE MEN INJURED
IN CRASH AT METTER

METTER, Ga., April 4.—Three unidentified young white men were critically injured here this afternoon when the car in which they were traveling at a high rate of speed left the highway, struck an embankment and jumped 48 feet through the air, smashing in a ditch.

A letter in the pocket of one man bore the name of Russell Owen, of Aiken, S. C. R. F. D. No. 1. One of the other men roused for a few minutes and gave his name as Louie Heath, of South Carolina. Two of the men may die.

The car in which they were traveling, a roadster, bore Georgia tag No. 45406-D. The motor number had been removed.

Hines, in Plant City, Fla., where he was on a visit. The body will arrive in Thomasville early Wednesday morning and funeral services and interment will probably be held on that date, though final rites will await the arrival of the widow and two surviving daughters, Miss Margaret and Mildred Hines, who have been visiting in New Orleans.

49 CITIZENS OF PIKE
BACK OWEN ON BEER

Letter to Congressman 'Does Not Condone' Grand Jury Resolutions.

ZEBULON, Ga., April 4.—(P)—Forty-nine Pike county citizens today signed and mailed a letter to Congressman Emmett Owen, of the fourth district, saying they "do not condone the criticism of your beer bill vote made by the Upson county grand jury and given wide publication in the daily papers of the state."

The Upson county grand jury recently adopted a resolution criticizing Congressman Owen for not supporting President Roosevelt in his entire program and urging him to back up the president.

"We feel," the letter read, "that your work as solicitor-general of the Griffin circuit has given you an insight on the beer and liquor question that we common laymen do not possess, and, therefore, we feel you are in a position to represent us in the national congress better than any citizen of the fourth congressional district."

JUDGE PETER MELDRIM IS RELIEVED OF DUTIES

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 4.—Governor Eugene Talma had issued a formal order relieving Judge Peter W. Meldrim from further service in connection with the March term of the supreme court. This is because of the illness of General Meldrim, who collapsed on the bench a little more than a week ago.

The governor's order directed that Judge J. Saxton Daniel, of the Atlantic circuit, and Judge R. N. Hardegan, of Louisville, presiding judge of the middle circuit, to divide the work of the Chatham superior court between them.

MONTICELLO SUFFERS
$20,000 LOSS BY FIRE
MONTICELLO, Ga., April 4.—(P)—Thousands of feet of lumber burned and the planer plant of the Big Indian Lumber Company here was damaged by fire late yesterday.

Workers spread the alarm after seeing smoke curling from a corner of the building but stiff winds spread the flames before firemen arrived. The loss was estimated by company officials at $15,000 to $20,000.

Store in River Eludes Tax
On Smokables in Alabama

Structure near West Point planned to give Alabama smokers the benefit of Georgia prices on cigars and smoking tobacco.

WEST POINT, Ga., April 4.—A storehouse built in the river is the latest business in the West Point district. As a rule, storekeepers of this section have not enjoyed seeing their establishments surrounded by water, but the new shop of Johnson and Company, well-known Valley merchants, is at home on the Chattahoochee.

At Langdale, where the new venture is being tried, the west bank of the river is the dividing line between Georgia and Alabama. Placing their store on the water, the Johnsons have put it wholly in Georgia and are operating it under a Georgia license. Seven other stores of this firm are located in Alabama.

The river shop is a protest against the Alabama tax on cigars and smoking tobacco, which makes it impossible for Alabama stores to compete with Georgia establishments. In their Langdale store tobacco and cigars are sold at the higher prices, which the Alabama law necessitates. Customers who want the lower Georgia prices can walk about a hundred yards to the river, cross the plankled way leading to the new building, and get their favorite brand for the money they want to spend.

"We are not bootlegging tobacco," said John Will Johnson, member of the firm who conceived the idea for the river store, "but are conducting a legitimate business in Georgia as a protest against Alabama's higher taxes."

Mr. Johnson states his firm paid in special taxes in 1932 to the state of Alabama more than $2,000 more than the same amount of business would have required in Georgia. The 5 per cent sales tax, which is being urged before the Alabama legislature, Mr. Johnson thinks, will destroy all business in Alabama towns close to the Georgia line.

The river storehouse is built on a barge, safely anchored and arranged so that it rises and falls with the variations in the water level. The location is a favorite fishing place for Langdale anglers.

4TH DISTRICT PRESS
MEETS AT ZEBULON

ZEBULON, Ga., April 4.—Men and women of the fourth congressional district will meet at Bluff Springs camp ground, one and one-half miles east of Zebulon on state highway No. 88, on April 14, at 10:30 a. m. at which time it is expected the district press association will be organized.

Well-known citizens who have been invited to attend are Emmett G. Owen, congressman from this district and for a number of years editor of the Pike County Journal; Jack Williams, president of the Georgia Press Association; Hal Stanley, secretary of the Georgia Press Association, and many other prominent men of the state. At noon a fish fry will be served by the Zebulon Woman's Club.

JURY COMPLETED FOR DOWNER TRIAL

Negro Taken to Unannounced Jail for Safekeeping Tuesday Night.

LEXINGTON, Ga., April 4.—The jury was completed today for the trial of John Downer, Elbert county negro charged with an alleged assault upon a white girl of that county. This is the negro's second trial. He was convicted in Elbert superior court at a trial marked by the presence of national guardsmen, after an infuriated crowd had tried unsuccessfully to take him from the jail there.

Attorneys for the negro, contending that the atmosphere at the first trial prevented a fair hearing for the negro, carried the case to the United States court of appeals, where a new trial in a different venue was ordered.

The defense today made a motion for a directed verdict on the ground that the negro's life had already been placed in jeopardy once, but the motion was overruled after the state had argued that the action of the United States court had, in effect, declared that the proceedings at Elbert were not a trial, because of the inflamed state of public opinion and the presence of the national guardsmen. The negro then entered his plea of not guilty.

Monday night a number of white men demanded the key of the jail from the deputy sheriff in charge, stating that several hundred others were waiting in the outskirts of the town. The deputy refused and Sheriff T. E. Watkins took Downer to the Clarke county jail at Athens for the night, returning him here for trial this morning.

The negro has been taken to some unnamed place for safekeeping tonight. There was no disturbance near the courtroom today. There are unusually large crowds in town but everything has been orderly so far. There are no guardsmen here.

Taking of testimony, it is understood, will begin when court opens Wednesday.

PHONE RATE HEARINGS
AT EARLY DATE ASKED

MACON, Ga., April 4.—(P)—A request that telephone rate hearings be set by the Georgia public service commission "as early as possible for the reason that the telephone company is now enjoying boom-time rates in depression times" is contained in a letter to the chairman of the commission, James A. Perry, from the Macon city attorneys, E. W. Maynard and Ellsworth Hall Jr., and made public tonight.

Most of the communication from the Macon attorneys was in reply to statements attributed to Mr. Perry appearing in Georgia newspapers last Sunday.

SIX NEGROES ESCAPE
STEWART COUNTY JAIL

LUMPKIN, Ga., April 5.—(P)—Six negroes have escaped from the Stewart county jail, leaving officers puzzled as to what manner of implements they used in prying off window bars.

A pedestrian passing the jail saw them sliding down ropes made of bed blankets. He gave the alarm and officers followed them for a distance with bloodhounds.

Other prisoners made no attempt to leave. Officials said the fugitives apparently carried the implements with them, since nothing was found in the jail that could have been used to loosen the bars.

Georgian Given Two Legal Wives By Jury in Clarke County Court

ATHENS, Ga., April 4.—C. L. Abernethy, of Martin, Ga., has two wives as a result of a Clarke county superior court jury's action today.

In 1925 Mr. Abernethy was granted a divorce here from Mrs. Vesta Abernethy on charges of desertion. Tuesday Mrs. Abernethy charged that the divorce had been gained through fraud and the verdict was set aside.

Mrs. Abernethy said that she had not deserted her husband, and that she did not know of his divorce proceedings until government compensation which she had been receiving through him was discontinued.

The Abernethys were living in Seneca, S. C. at the time she claimed that Mr. Abernethy had not been living in Georgia 12 months prior to the granting of the divorce; that he had concealed her residence so that she did not know of the proceedings and could not be at the trial to defend herself, and that he had not published the suit for divorce.

Since being granted the divorce in 1925 Mr. Abernethy has married again. He had three children by his first wife and one by his second. Both of Mr. Abernethy's wives were at the courthouse here Tuesday morning. The first Mrs. Abernethy now lives at Greenville, S. C.

MACON TRIAL TRIPS WILL BE ATTEMPTED

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(AP) Indication came from naval chiefs today that the huge U. S. S. Macon, twin of the tragedy-ended Akron, would start as scheduled on trials flights now set for around April 10.

At the office of Lieutenant Commander Garland Fulton, director of the airship construction program, strong intimation was given that the only obstacles now seen to prevent these trials as scheduled would be delay in installation of final equipment or the calling of part of its crew in the Akron inquiry.

The Macon already has been christened and "air borne."

Installation of final fittings has been in progress for some weeks.

DEAN OF COMMERCE
RESIGNS AT MERCER

MACON, Ga., April 4.—(AP)—Dean C. B. Wray, dean of the school of commerce of Mercer University, has announced his resignation and the Macon Telegraph says Mercer officials plan to do away with the various deans at the university except heads of the college of arts and sciences and the law school.

The Mercer dean said he preferred for details of his resignation to be announced by the university president, Dr. Spright Dowell, but Dr. Dowell said last night that Dean Wray "has not submitted any resignation."

The Telegraph said it understood the new plan to be put into effect at Mercer would set up "head professors" in the various departments instead of deans. Dr. Dowell said "we are going to save everything we can."

Closing of Schools Urged by Blackwood

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 4.—(UP) Governor Ibra C. Blackwood, in an address to the South Carolina house of representatives today, recommended closing all schools supported by public taxation from May until January.

SPECIAL ELECTION BARRED BY COURT

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 4.—(AP)—Superior Judge A. L. Franklin has issued an order restraining Ordinary Joseph Law, of Burke county, from calling a special election tomorrow to decide whether county officials will continue to be paid with fees or placed on salaries.

The election was authorized by the recent legislature but Burke attorneys held the legislation is unconstitutional. Acting on that advice, the county commissioners accepted Judge Franklin's injunction with the decision to forego the election.

Modern Beer Saloon Looks Like Soda Fountain

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 4.—(AP) The massive, somber fixtures in the old-time saloons will not be seen with the revival of legalized beer sales, if the designs of furniture manufacturers prevail.

The National Show Case Company, of Columbus, has just received a contract for outfitting a beer saloon in the Roosevelt hotel at New Orleans and there will be nothing resembling the old days except the well-known brass rail.

Instead of heavy oaken bar, mahogany cabinets and mirrors that reached the ceiling, there'll be fixtures much like the soda water parlors.

PLOT TO BLACKMAIL DEAD ATLANTA MAN IS LAID TO WOMAN

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—(AP) Mrs. Hallie Terstege, 40, an interior decorator, was arrested by federal officers here today on a charge of extortion through the mails.

Mrs. Terstege, said by officials to have been socially prominent at one time in Louisville, Ky., was quoted by Postal Inspector George H. Austin as admitting she had sent a letter to Arthur Howell, former resident of Atlanta, Ga., demanding $5,000.

Howell has been dead two years and the letter was turned over to postal authorities by his widow.

A decoy package, simulating a roll of bills, was sent to Mrs. Terstege by registered mail and she was arrested shortly after she signed for the package.

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 5, 1933.

IS IT WORTH WHILE?

The destruction of the Akron, with its tragic loss of life, culminates a long list of dirigible disasters in various parts of the world during the past two decades.

So staggering has been the loss of life and money in these disasters as to create serious doubt of the wisdom of further effort to conquer the air with lighter-than-air ships.

The first dirigible bought by the United States, the ZR-2, bought in England in 1921, collapsed over the Humber on a trial trip, bringing death to 22 men. The next ship to be bought, the Italian Roma, in 1922, crashed to earth in flames near Hampton Roads, with a death toll of 34.

Then came the wreck of the Shenandoah in a storm over Ohio, resulting in 14 deaths, and now the Akron joins her predecessors in meeting a tragic fate, either through structural faults or the assaults of wind and lightning.

Thus out of the six dirigibles which have either been bought or constructed by the United States government, only two remain, the Los Angeles and the Macon, yet to be put into service.

Scarcely less tragic has been the experience of Germany. Great Britain, Italy and France, the other dirigible-building countries. Germany has lost six Zeppelins and the air fleets of the other nations have witnessed such tragedies as the wrecks of the Dixmude, the R-104 and the Italia.

The newly constructed Macon cost about $5,000,000, and the Akron approximately the same, but despite its huge cost the latter ship was converted in the twinkling of an eye into a coffin for the greater part of its crew.

That amount of money put into the construction of airplanes, and experiments looking to the perfection of the heavier-than-air machine, the safety and ability of which have been established, would have resulted in a far greater defensive air fleet for the nation.

Man can build, with safety and efficiency, on a scale only so big, and if he goes beyond, tragedy awaits. The shocking record of the United States, and other nations, in experimenting with dirigibles indicates that their very size and helplessness puts them beyond the realm of safety or practicality.

MISS DELL TO BE RETAINED.

Reports from Washington that Miss Jessie Dell, outstanding Georgia woman, will be retained in her post as civil service commissioner, will be gratifying not only to her friends in this state but to all who believe that able and faithful public service should be given proper recognition.

The first woman to be given high office in the federal government, Miss Dell steadfastly put duty above political considerations and as a result has made a record of markedly efficient service in the important post she occupies.

It is largely because she has performed her duties with an eye single to the good of the public service and has refused to be influenced in her decisions by political pressure that the remarkable situation developed which found an able and conscientious government official faced from her own state with opposition for her continuance in office.

Because of her unswerving policy not to retain in the service of the government any employee who has proven unworthy, despite political pressure for his retention, Miss Dell has incurred the animosity of some who would prostitute the public service for political reasons.

It would have been unthinkable for this reason she should have been removed from office, and the reassuring advice that she will be continued as commissioner by President Roosevelt will be gratifying to those who believe that in the government service, as in business, faithful and honest service should bring its own reward.

The effort to supplant Miss Dell aroused the indignation of the women of the whole country and leading women and national organizations are prominent among those who have urged President Roosevelt to let her remain in the office in which she has served so well.

Miss Dell's service has been so outstanding that her designation as president of the civil service commission has been sought by her friends and she is undoubtedly admirably equipped for such service. Whether or not she is given this recognition, however, the administration is wise in its reported decision not to dispense with the service of so worthy and distinguished an official.

THE PEOPLE RESPONSIBLE.

The responsibility of the people for the "unequal levy of taxes on real estate and personal property" is pointed out by the board of tax assessors of Atlanta in a letter, appearing elsewhere on this page, in which the helplessness of the board to materially reduce assessments is stressed.

The board correctly takes the position that since the people have voted obligations involving the credit of the city, "it is only fair to expect those in official capacity to make the necessary tax levy to protect the outstanding indebtedness, and they should not be criticized for so doing."

It is not to be denied that real estate valuations are too high, resulting practically in confiscation, in many instances, but it is the system and not the board which is to blame.

When market valuations of intangible property go up or down, the tax burden is automatically increased or reduced in proportion.

With real estate the situation is different. There is no exact, from day to day, market of valuations. It is there, in open sight, to be levied against and must bear the burden made necessary by mandatory laws requiring the raising of sufficient taxes to meet fixed charges.

Out of this hodge-podge, unbusinesslike tax situation has come the imposing on real estate of an unnecessarily disproportionate part of the entire tax burden.

As the tax board says, the system is unjust and should be remedied so that an equal share of the cost of government shall be borne by all types of property.

The board is helpless to correct the situation. The remedy lies with the people of the state in the election of senators and representatives who will substitute modern tax laws for the makeshift statutes which have long since outlived their usefulness.

In the meantime, the tax assessors of Atlanta are performing a difficult and thankless task as best they can. It is a task that has never been more honestly nor efficiently performed than by the present board, which, instead of being criticized, should receive the cooperation of the property owners, who are themselves, in the last analysis, responsible for the unequal burden they are bearing.

A hoarder, of course, is anybody who holds out more money than you do.

Having to charge gasoline for a few days wasn't the old-timer's idea of roughing it.

There's nothing reduces the size of a fascist leader like being authorized to lead.

"People of the east used jig-saw puzzles 2,000 years B. C." Yes, but they called it wiring.

Still, it's a sign of some progress when nations oppose all wars except the one they're in.

Hitler teaches us that any man may be a great leader if enough people are dumb than he is.

There's no hurry about distributing party plums. The boys stay in line so much better while waiting.

Happy thought! If everybody could do without money for three months, the bandits might starve out.

He isn't really a big-time crook unless you must let him alone to prevent the loss of public confidence.

Tests show that people sleep better nude. And notice how hard it is to get the bare facts out of some bunk.

If music composing Mr. Woodin would start our hoarders to the bank, let him give us a Purse March in B flat.

This bootleg stuff may produce beer barons, but two bottles in the old days made a man monarch of all he surveyed.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Surprises Coming.

Signor Mussolini told an English newspaperman the other day that the second half of 1933 is going to bring the world some big surprises. This announcement has set the continent speculating. It is but natural that in the present circumstances of growing tension between the various states, men should be busy to give the most lurid interpretations to the Duce's words. The main question asked is: Does Mussolini foresee war? It is not asked: War between whom and whom, for there are half a dozen corners in old Europe where a mere spark may set off the conflagration any moment. And everybody knows just as well that once started, it will never be localized between two states, but will inevitably drag in every power.

The next day after Mussolini's announcement, the Italian papers published long lists of armaments supplied by French factories to Yugoslavia, giving details on the number of cannon and tanks and high-explosive shells. Against whom is Yugoslavia arming? asks the Italian Journalists, and they supply the answer themselves: "We know that this is against Italy."

Another grave item are the rumors of a proposal by Captain Goehring, leader of the right-hand man to start an interventionist war against Russia. Captain Goehring proposes to take the Ukraine away from Russia, turn it into a German colony and by modern machinery, revive German industry. Poland is to have a share in this program. In return Poland is to give Germany the so-called Polish corridor, while Germany will assist Poland in occupying and annexing Lithuania.

Edouard Herriot, former prime minister of France, writing in the weekly paper, Marianne, declares that this same proposal was made to him by the premier by Herr Von Papen. So that we may be certain that it is not mere newspaper gossip or the sensational sort. When Ramsay MacDonald arrived in Paris the other day he would say nothing more than: "The hour is grave." Of this there can no longer be any doubt.

World Turns To Barter.

Persia has ordered half a million dollars' worth of engines and engineering goods from Sweden. These will be paid for with Persian goods, such as carpets. The Persian government will not allow money to leave the country. A deal between Egypt and Persia has just been completed. More than 50,000 tons of nitrate were exchanged for 15,000 bales of cotton. Spain and the Argentine have been exchanging merchandise for agricultural products. A clearing house for bartered goods between Russia and France has been established in Paris. Russia has also exchanged petroleum with Spain for 50 Spanish-bill oil tanks.

Brazil is carrying out barter contracts, mainly with coffee, for American wheat, German coal and other commodities. The Aluminum Company of Canada recently made a deal with Russia, exchanging aluminum ware for coal. More than 1,000 men were employed as a result of this transaction. A clearing house has been established in Bremen, Germany. One hundred firms are connected with this enterprise. Germany is the largest dealer in barter in Europe. German coal is in demand in Germany and the rest of the world. The last transaction was 8,000 tons of coal for Greek raisins, tobacco and wine.

In America $3,000,000 worth of pearl shells has been exchanged for cargoes of Chilean copper. Even marriage fees are said to be accepted in farm produce by registrars in America. College students are also paid in barter. In Germany, for example, a student is paid in barter for his tuition. The last transaction was 8,000 tons of coal for Greek raisins, tobacco and wine.

In the meantime, the tax assessors of Atlanta are performing a difficult and thankless task as best they can. It is a task that has never been more honestly nor efficiently performed than by the present board, which, instead of being criticized, should receive the cooperation of the property owners, who are themselves, in the last analysis, responsible for the unequal burden they are bearing.

The Little Worker Should Give Up the Hoe When Dad Needs It To Dig Bait

By Robert Quillen

Years ago, when machinery was rare and crude, the utmost endeavors of young and old were not enough to provide abundance for everybody.

Children worked because their help was needed. When machines were invented and production increased, the conscience of the world, long reconciled to hard necessity, saw no evil in the enslavement of children.

In England, where fortunes were built by the textile industry, children of five worked in the mills. They were the children of desperate poverty. Most of them lived in filthy and sunless warrens and slept on the floor. They were awakened before dawn, given a crust of bread and herded through the darkness to begin their labors at daylight. Hollow-eyed, tubercular, a crawl with vermin and weak with hunger, they often fell asleep at their work. And then a foreman with a whip came behind them and they awoke with a scream.

By working thus from dark to dark, the children earned a few pennies and created wealth for the upper classes. The evil chapter in the story of industry is forgotten history, but children still labor to support their parents. It is a custom unusual in nature, and this generation's opinion of it is well expressed in Charlotte Gilman's lines:

"No fledgling feeds the fatherbird,
No chicken feeds the hen,
No kitten mouses for the cat—
This glory is for men.
We are the wisest, strongest race:
Long may our praise be sung—
The only animal that says:
That lives upon its young!"

Some years ago the states were given opportunity to prevent child labor by constitutional amendment. They failed to do it and the matter was generally forgotten. But congress set no time limit for ratification, and the courts now hold that the amendment will become effective whenever a sufficient number of states take action—or reverse the action already taken.

There isn't much opposition now. Child labor doesn't seem such an inalienable right to young men are jobless. If you feel any interest in the matter, you may enjoy another little poem by Sarah Cleghorn:

"The golf links lie so near the mill
That almost every day
The laboring children can look out
And see the men at play."

Reductions Impossible By Tax Assessors Because Of Mandatory Statutes

Editor Constitution: The taxing authorities of the city of Atlanta have been asked to make reductions in the correction of the unequal levy of taxes on real estate and personal property, but we have pleaded in vain for legislative support that would bring about the necessary system. The authorities, therefore, are not responsible for the high levy on real estate.

The city of Atlanta, as we are informed, is required to set aside approximately $1,500,000 a year as a sinking fund, for the payment of interest and retirement of bonds, before one dollar can be appropriated toward the operation of the various departments of the municipality, through which, service is rendered to the public. A clearing house for bartered goods between Russia and France has been established in Paris. Russia has also exchanged petroleum with Spain for 50 Spanish-bill oil tanks.

When it is remembered that the people themselves voted these obligations, involving the credit of our city, it is only fair to expect those in official capacity to make the necessary tax levy to protect the outstanding indebtedness, and they should not be criticized for so doing.

Any prejudicial appeal to public sentiment leaving the impression that the city of Atlanta is causing the loss of homes to small owners because of high taxation is unworthy of those seeking to secure relief along orderly procedure and fair means. Whatever part excessive taxation plays in an unfortunate situation like this should be corrected, but taxation per se is not the cause of the loss of homes.

The tax assessors and receivers of the city of Atlanta have, within the last few months, examined hundreds of parcels of real estate, unavoidably lost to the owner in the absence of any taxation at all.

Let us all join, as good citizens, in an effort to correct existing evils, if they exist, but let us do so without appealing to class or group prejudice.

Very truly yours,
Tax Assessors and Receivers,
By J. C. LITTLE,

In Georgia's History

199 years ago today sixteen guineas (English money) was paid to Peter Gordon for drafting plans for the city of Savannah.

On April 7, 1734, who sailed for England with what chief and who was in charge of the province of Georgia?

For the two best original 50-word answers to the foregoing question, the winner of the prize of $100.00 will be the person who sends in the correct answer to the editor of the Constitution, will award two pairs of guest tickets to see "Perfect Understanding," a United States production starring George Swanson and is her greatest success. The "Trespasser," "Perfect Understanding" starts a week's run at Loew's Grand Friday.

Lee Christian, 41, of 769 Park street, manager of a grocery store at 401 Stone wall street, Tuesday night was shot in the right arm and cheek by two negro bandits armed with nickel-plated pistols, according to police reports.

Christian, who was taken to Georgia Baptist hospital for treatment, said that the bandits took his gun, but that he did not know whether or not they intended to kill him. They have gone down with their ship. They have added another inspiration to our people.

Heave plaster around the pelvis below the crest of the hip bones, or in some cases a plaster of Paris grid, will give tremendous relief at once and enable the patient to move with comparative little pain. Later a wide belt may be used to support the injured junction for several months.

RAILROAD REVOLUTION

SEEN BY HOWELL

Ten Years To Bring Complete Change, Rotary Club Members Told.

Railroads' methods will undergo a revolution, an 10 years from now a train will no longer resemble the present models, as they are, than the old street cars, Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, said Tuesday in a talk before the Atlanta Rotary Club at the Capital City Club.

Mr. Howell spoke as a member of the transportation commission, which was named by the insurance companies, savings banks and holders of numerous church, charitable and private funds which have heavy investments in railroad securities, to study the problem and make recommendations. On this commission were the late Calvin Coolidge chairman; Bernard Baruch, Alfred E. Smith, Alexander Le Sage and Mr. Howell.

"Some of the recommendations the commission made have been enacted into law," said Mr. Howell. "Others have been adopted by one branch of congress and still others have been introduced, with the likelihood that all will become law."

The railroads are undoubtedly partly to blame for their present serious plight, Mr. Howell said, but that does not alter the fact that something would have to be done for the relief of millions of dollars, he pointed out, in the form of insurance investments, savings banks and trust funds, were sunk in this form of investment, and must be protected.

Mr. Howell pointed out some of the defects of railroad operation as seen by the commission.

Parallel lines. For instance, six trains daily pass through Atlanta and from Florida, when only two are necessary for travel at this season.

Circuitous routing. A shipment of wheat was recently ordered from Wisconsin. A check-up on the railroad showed that the paper was sent to Chicago, and thence to Buffalo, Washington, Sumter, S. C., and Augusta to Atlanta. A check-up on the railroad showed that the paper was sent to Chicago, and thence to Buffalo, Washington, Sumter, S. C., and Augusta to Atlanta. A check-up on the railroad showed that the paper was sent to Chicago, and thence to Buffalo, Washington, Sumter, S. C., and Augusta to Atlanta.

Over-capitalization. The railroads are over-capitalized. When they were prosperous the railroads put their earnings in bonds and stocks, and when they should have reduced their indebtedness.

Over-valuation. The government spent over $200,000,000 a few years ago in valuing the railroads. The railroads, and states have since then, and valuation. It has since shrunk. Rates should be based on earnings, not value.

Costly recaptives. The administration of failed railroads has been disastrous. In the case of a western railroad one attorney charged and collected a fee of $50,000 in connection with the receivership. A law reformer said this is about to be enacted.

All transportation systems should be treated alike. Mr. Howell maintained, and should be fed out of the same spoon. Railroads should be allowed to own truck lines where these would be more economical for short hauls.

The 2-cent passenger rate will prevail everywhere, Mr. Howell continued. "The day of raising freight rates is past. The railroad problem will be settled by service and cost to the traveler. If a person can travel cheaper by rail than by any other mode, this is about to be enacted."

The government, he added, should repeal the "recapture clause," under which it confiscates railroad profits above a fair return on assessed valuations.

Mr. Howell foresaw lighter equipment and greater speed for railroads. Lighter cars would be pulled by Diesel engines, as in Germany, where trains make 96 miles an hour. Railroad speed was greater 25 years ago with older equipment, than today, he said.

James A. Perry, chairman of the public service commission, was present. At the conclusion of the address, the nominating committee, through R. C. Smith, placed the following names in nomination for new Rotary officers, these

Wives of Akron's Officers and Crew Are Stoical in Face of Widowhood

(Copyright, 1933, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

LAKEHURST, N. J., April 4.—From the first gray streak of dawn, the sorrowing wives and crew members of the dirigible Akron enlisted men began trekking through the rain from their homes in Lakewood, Lakehurst and Toms River, to the common meeting place in the welfare building. Some had dressed hastily, a few arriving in house dresses and bedroom slippers, without stockings.

Chaplain Steiner sought to console the women and induce some of them to have lunch in the cafeteria on the first floor of the welfare center.

News of the disaster came slowly from the hangar over the chaplain's telephone, and he could only shake his head as anxious relatives asked if others had been saved.

There were few tears from the group of 25 to 30 women and their courage in the face of almost certain bereavement was impressive.

"They're a splendid group of women and we're proud of the way they keep their heads up in this terrible disaster," Chaplain Steiner said.

Some of them were wives of men who had gone through the Shenandoah disaster. They sat tight-lipped, hoping somehow that their loved ones had escaped. In a corner sat a young mother with a nine-month-old baby in her lap.

Meanwhile, the wives of officers of the Akron congregated at the quarters of Lieutenant Commander Jesse Kenworthy, the new commander of the station, who succeeds Commander Berry, lost with the Akron. The officers' wives were no less stoical than those of the enlisted men, and comforted one another as they waited at the telephone for latest advices. There were no lamentations and all held up bravely in the face of certain widowhood.

At Lieutenant Commander H. V. Wiley's home in Lakewood, his three children played about the house in charge of a caretaker, while his eldest son, Gordon, 12, discussed with visitors the details of the tragedy, exhibiting a considerable knowledge of aviation. The other children are David, 8, and Marie, 3. Commander Wiley was one of those saved.

Immediately next door to the Wiley residence is the cottage of Lieutenant Morgan Redfield, the Akron's chief radio officer. The missing officer's 5-year-old son romped about the house, in charge of a woman friend of the family, while Mrs. Redfield was at the hangar seeking news of her husband.

Among the mourners was a pretty dark-haired woman of 28, who sat in an office of the naval aircraft station here and mourned the death of her husband. She is Moesha Copeland, a native of Greece, and widow of R. W. Copeland, chief radio operator aboard the Akron, who died on the rescue tanker Phoebeus.

Mrs. Copeland was the first woman in Lakehurst to learn definitely of the death of her kin. While others sat around, hoping against hope that in some manner they would be reunited with their husbands, sweethearts and sons, Mrs. Copeland knew that she would never see her husband alive again.

Only she was certain that the affectionate kiss and hug she gave her husband just before he brilliantly boarded the dirigible were the last of their 11 years of married life.

"My husband was delighted to go on the trip," she said. "Both of us were very happy as we walked over to the hangar where he boarded the ship at 6 o'clock.

"I looked at the sky and it didn't seem so good to me. I mentioned the bad weather to him, but he assured me the Akron was a sturdy ship and could withstand any storm.

"I asked him about lightning, but he dismissed my fear with a laugh. "Why," he said, "up in the air is the safest place to be during an electrical storm. Lightning cannot damage an airship like the Akron. If lightning did strike, it would glance off through the propellers."

"After a little more conversation he took me in his arms and we kissed each other. He said it would not be long before we would see each other again. Then he was gone, to join his companions."

She paused to wipe her tears and continued: "We were married 11 years ago in Constantinople. I met him there while I was attending Roberts College, an American missionary institute, while he was a radio operator for the United States embassy.

"It was 17 then. He used to take me to dances and other social affairs. We were married shortly after our meeting."

"Last year he brought my mother over here from Greece at his own expense. She remained with us at our home in Lakehurst for five months, then went back to her country because she felt lonely."

JACK HUFF, 13, DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Jack Huff, 13-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. L. N. Huff, of 891 Briarcliff road, died Tuesday night at a private hospital following a series of four major operations.

Young Huff, who was a student at the Ross Junior High school, had been ill for several months. He underwent the fourth operation Tuesday afternoon and died a few hours later.

His father is the proprietor of the Huff, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Emma L. N. Huff Optical Company, at 213 Mitchell street.

In addition to his parents, the boy is survived by three sisters, Misses Mildred, Louise and Elizabeth Huff; two brothers, Perry and L. N. Huff Jr., and his grandmothers, Mrs. Julia Shepard, of Memphis, Tenn. Funeral services are to be held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the residence, with Dr. Wade H. Boggs officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery, with Sam Greenberg & Company in charge.

CRACKERS LOSE TO BROWNS, 7-5

Lead the Browns had gained off Andy Messenger until the ninth when Stiles threw wild and walked McKee and Chatham as a starter. Red Rollings battled for Kleinhaus and laid down a perfect sacrifice, both runners advancing. Dashiell sent Reynolds back to the rail in left to get his long fly. McKee scoring after the catch. Laskowski then dropped his third single over first to score Chatham with the tying run.

Carl Reynolds, the outfielder who came from Washington in the winter swap, and remembered as the target for Bill Dickey's famous right cross last summer, was the batting star for the Browns. He got two singles and a double.

Manager Moore was well pleased with the work of Laskowski and the pitching of Kleinhaus, the southpaw, who gave the Browns but four hits, one a scratch, and no runs in the four innings he worked.

Advertising Caused Increase

Arthur Mauri, manager of the Atlanta branch of the Western Auto Supply Company, left, is shown with P. R. Richardson, of Kansas City, the district manager, on his visit to the Atlanta agency. Declaring that his company's January and February sales showed an increase, Mr. Richardson said this was due to steady newspaper advertising. "Western Auto showed an increase in January sales of 4 per cent over last year and in February an increase of 14 per cent over last February," he said. "We attribute this increase mostly to the fact that we carried a consistent newspaper campaign during these months where in former years we have withheld our newspaper copy during the first three months of the year."

already passed the general farm relief bill.

The Roosevelt bill for regulating security laws met sharp criticism at both ends of the capital.

William C. Reed, of New York, representing the American Investment Banks' Association, told a house committee it was "the broadest bill ever submitted of this kind," and that it would "open up more litigation by crooked people and lawyers than you ever heard of."

The senate banking committee was told by Arthur Dean, of New York, who said he represented "a number of investors," that the bill was "a hopeless confusion of ill-assorted provisions lifted bodily out of the English marketing act and certain blue sky laws."

The prospect for speedy enactment of the $500,000,000 relief bill faded as the house hesitated to consider the measure passed by the senate last week on technical grounds. It called for a report by its judiciary committee on the question of constitutionality in originating such a bill in the senate.

An identical bill was introduced in the house and referred to its banking committee, while the senate measure rested on the speaker's desk, apparently stymied.

MODIFIED BILL EXPECTED TO MEET APPROVAL TODAY

WASHINGTON, April 4. (AP)—After debate had developed sentiment that the measure was too drastic, democratic leaders tonight predicted the senate would pass in modified form tomorrow the Black bill to apply a shorter work week in industry.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, said he or some other senator would offer an amendment to restrict the hours to 35 or 36 hours a week instead of 30 as provided in the bill by Senator Black, democrat, Alabama.

Robinson said he had discussed this angle with an unnamed "high authority" and it was thought a 30-hour week would be too drastic a change and might lead to demands for wage reductions. He predicted the measure would pass with this and perhaps some other modifications. A vote tomorrow virtually was assured when the senate agreed to limit debate starting at 2 p. m.

RADIO PLEA MADE FOR GEORGIA HALL

Cator Woolford Goes on Air in $100,000 Warm Springs Drive.

Carrying the campaign to raise $100,000 for Georgia Hall at Warm Springs Foundation into the homes through radio, Cator Woolford, of Atlanta, vice chairman of the drive, Tuesday night made an appeal for donations from every citizen in two short speeches over WGST and WSB. Other appeals will be made via the air waves by prominent citizens during this week.

Mr. Woolford said that while dollars, dimes and quarters are rolling in, "it will take a lot of coins to swell the funds to the $100,000 needed to erect an adequate dormitory for patients at the institution headed by President Roosevelt."

In an effort to spur Junior Chamber of Commerce workers to larger collections, Eastern Air Transport, Inc., Tuesday offered the Jaycee who secures the largest total in subscriptions a free round trip ticket to New York over the air line. The offer was announced by C. H. Dolan, operations manager.

Meanwhile, Duncan Peek, president of the Junior Chamber, reported members of the organization working zealously to swell the fund. Mrs. W. P. Dunn, president of the Atlanta Woman's Club, said her organization was active, and Mrs. Edward Van Winkle Jr., of the Junior League, reported increased subscriptions at the booths operated by her group in two downtown department stores.

Speaking before the Kiwanis Club at the regular meeting Tuesday, Henry Heinz, prominent Atlantan, urged Kiwanians to aid in every possible way to force the response over the top.

Cason J. Callaway, of LaGrange, chairman of the campaign, reported several counties nearing their quota. Four counties already have reached or exceeded their goals.

Meriwether county, according to Arthur Carpenter, resident trustee of the foundation, has more than tripled the quota assigned with subscriptions still pouring in. He added that more than 1,000 citizens of the county have contributed and that interest in the proposed new building is at high pitch.

liquor traffic, so that "the maximum revenue" may be derived, and suggested that such revenue "could well be used in the purchase of text-books in our school system."

Prior to the governor's message, which he delivered in person at 2:15 p. m., both branches of the legislature organized, the senate electing T. G. Futch president and the house, Peter Tomasello Jr., speaker.

A dramatic incident occurred as Tomasello delivered his speech of acceptance in the house. He paused, and said he would have to cut short his remarks because of strain he had been under. Later a call for a physician came from the rostrum. Mrs. Tomasello rushed forward. The speaker, wan and visibly affected, rose and apologized to the house.

The only major diversion the governor made from his prepared message was to insert a recommendation that the legislature "submit an amendment to our own state constitution at the next general election in November of next year, allowing the voters to determine whether they want state prohibition repealed."

SOUTHERN SLASH IS DOUBTED HERE

Officials Believe Reports
Erroneous; Perry Sees
"Something to It."

Reports from New York that the Southern railway is planning to cut its coach fares to one and a half cents a mile and its Pullman fares to two cents a mile with the surcharge eliminated, indicating that a passenger rate war is imminent, Tuesday were discounted by Atlanta officials of the Southern system, but were hailed by James A. Perry, chairman of the Georgia public service commission, as offering a solution of the railroad problem.

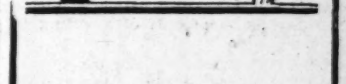

The New York Times construed the rumored rate reduction as "an answer to the recent action of the Atlantic Coast Line, through the Louisville & Nashville, in reducing the rates respectively to two cents and three cents without surcharge."

Hugh Couch, assistant to the vice president of the Southern, said that he believed the reports to be erroneous and not well founded. The rumors probably were prompted by the fact that the Southern has placed in effect experimental rates between certain points in its territory in an effort to see the results of lowered fares, Mr. Couch said.

E. G. Irwin, assistant general passenger agent, said that the story from New York was "all mixed up," and that "nothing of that sort is contemplated at this time."

"I would not be surprised to see within the next 90 days the adoption by all of the railroads of lower fares in line with the proposal which I made a year ago," said Mr. Perry. The standard rate is 3.0 cents a mile.

There's no fun in cheap cigars when you've been used to QUALITY EL PRODUCTO for real enjoyment

A GALLON of poor coffee cannot take the place of one good cup. And a pocketful of cheap cigars won't make up for one El Producto. In cigars, above all else, quality is never extravagance. Steady smokers realize that the quality of El Producto is true economy. For, the uncopiable El Producto blend of fine tobaccos gives a real enjoyment that lasts.

Nothing can compare with the distinctive character and rich mildness of El Producto. Magnificent workmanship adds to the pleasure of smoking. El Producto burns so smoothly, so evenly that the full enjoyment of its quality is never marred.

Only quality can give real cigar enjoyment. And a dime invested in El Producto gives more satisfaction than any amount paid out for cheap smokes. Many sizes, 10c to 25c.

"This Changes All My Ideas"

"I had always believed," said a recent visitor to Spring Hill, "that people of the wealthier classes were charged a high price for funerals, simply because they seemed able to pay more."

"This visit to Patterson's changes all my ideas about funeral costs. I can now understand why so many services of finer quality are held at Spring Hill . . . not because the families are particularly well-to-do, but because the charges are so much more reasonable than most people realize."

Visitors to Spring Hill quickly see, by means of the prices all marked in plain figures, that everyone can afford a Complete Patterson Service. A larger volume of patronage, plus fortunate real estate investments that paid for this mortuary, permit lower charges. . . . SCHOOL, PENSION FUNDS TO BE PAID

Immediate Payment Seen as Result of Ruling by Attorney-General.

Additional and immediate funds to the state common schools and to the veterans' service office for payment of unpaid Confederate pensions was seen Tuesday as the result of a ruling by Attorney-General M. J. Yeomans.

The ruling was on the division of $540,000 placed in the treasury April 1 by the state highway department as discount for rentals of the Western & Atlantic railroad.

Under the terms of the discount act passed in 1931 the state institutions and agencies were to share in the rental fund, the income to be devoted to unpaid appropriations. The legislature this year wiped out all unpaid and uncontracted for appropriations of the various agencies except the pension fund and the common schools.

The opinion of the attorney-general Tuesday was written at the request of Governor Eugene Talmadge who desired information on how to split the $540,000. The attorney-general ruled that it should be divided on a proportionate basis for the unpaid appropriations, and inasmuch as the largest unpaid appropriations are $3,122,317 to the common schools and $659,520 to the pension fund it is expected that about 80 per cent of the $540,000 will go to the schools, 8 per cent to the pension fund and the balance will be divided among the other departments. The exact distribution will not be made known until the state auditor has figured out just how much each department and agency is entitled to.

VAN PAASSEN FEELS NAZIS' BRUTALITY

my prognosis would so soon and so sickeningly be verified. I have interviewed scores of refugees. I have seen wounds that would nauseate stout-hearted surgeons. I have listened to accounts that froze my blood. I have read secret reports that took my breath away.

Nothing I write here is done with the object of exciting hatred against the German people. In spite of Hitler, in spite of his human bloodbaths, I remain a partisan of conciliation and peace. If Hitler is assassinating all the prominent liberal pacifists so that the voice of international friendship and brotherhood may, as he says, never be heard again in the Reich, I consider it my duty to speak the louder for the ideals of which these men have become the martyrs.

115,000 Arrested. One hundred and fifteen thousand people have been arrested in Germany since the election. Not a single trial has been held. In not a single case have relations been notified where the arrested were taken. But hideously mutilated bodies, rendered unrecognizable by the famous "long knives of nazism" are found everywhere; in country-lanes, on the rivers and lakes, in empty building lots, in deserted streets, on manure piles.

The massacre promised long ago by Hitler and his chiefs has become a ghastly reality. The executions do not take place in public, however. Hitler has been unable to provoke the working class into coming into the streets to meet his nazis which would have been the signal for an open combat. Instead, he has gone to his house to arrest fathers and husbands, drag them off to prisons and to those sinister nazi barracks to torture, kill or drive them insane. On the pretext of a communist plot, of which the reichstag burning was to be the start, a crude comedy which nobody in Germany believes and which the correspondents of such arch-conservative papers as the London Telegraph, the London Times, the Paris Intransigent, Petit Parisien, as well as the observers of the entire liberal press of Britain, France, the Scandinavian countries and Spain have fully proven to be an act of nazi provocation, engineered and carried out by Hitler's own men, Hitler has released a terror which makes one actually despair of the human race.

In Name of Virtue. This terror, it should not be forgotten, is carried on "to the glory of God," in the name of decency, to protect Christian principles, and to restore the honor of the old German virtues. The notion that Hitler's regime will be of short duration is pitiful. There is no force that can dislodge him now, except perhaps Hindenburg, who has the reichswehr (regular army) behind him. But Hindenburg acquiesces. He has been hoodwinked. The president does not believe in a communist danger, nor does he believe that a threat of a red uprising existed on the eve of the elections. Von Papen has stated so frankly. Yet neither of them feel like interfering in Hitler's program of "exterminating" all those who disagree with the doctrines of brute nationalism.

The last thing I saw in Munich was a truck being driven through the streets. On it was a man half naked. His hands were tied. Nazi troopers stood around him. The man's eyes were swollen and closed. His nose had been slit. Half his beard was missing. . . torn out. His back was a gruesome, raw patch of flesh. Nazis were prodding him to keep him from falling. Who was he? A communist? A socialist? The spectacle made me too sick to ask the horror-struck and silent pedestrians. We had the answer from the nazis themselves. "This is the big Jew boy," called out one of the nazis. "This is your Doctor Elber people, the judge of the high court. This is the man who gave judgment against a nazi last year. He won't give any more judgment, citizens. Dr. Elber is going for a little ride with the nazis!"

What Fate? If that is the way a judge is treated in public, what will not be the fate of those arrested and lying in jail, away from the public eye? The Munich judge is not the only prominent man to be treated that way. Thousands are dealt with in that barbaric manner. News comes this morning that the mayor of Cologne, the famous Dr. Solmann, was similarly paraded through the streets of his city by a nazi group. We are reading letters here, written by nazis, telling what they did to communists, Jews and socialists, liberals, writers, intellectuals, artists, in Berlin, Hamburg, Bremen and other cities. Zurich has become a clearing house for refugees and evidence. An underground road of communication has been established. Refugees are filling the hotels here. Refugees are pouring into Poland, into Alsace-Lorraine, into Czechoslovakia, into Belgium. The soviet government has sent boats to Dantzig to carry away the thousands who have reached that city out of East Prussia.

But a new horror has been added to the plight of the hunted human beings. All passports have been called in. They can't cross the frontiers any more.

VAN PAASSEN AUTOBIOGRAPHY TELLS OF LIFE AND WORK. An excellent description of himself and a short autobiography, published in The Constitution in November, 1930, classed Pierre Van Paassen, European correspondent of The Constitution, who was assaulted Tuesday in Munich by nazis, as a melange or salad made up of a man "born in Flanders, a British subject, naturalized in Canada, representing an American newspaper, and living in Paris."

Van Paassen said that he is a descendant of crusaders of the 11th century who "drank their liege-lords under the table in Ghent and rolled 'dem bones' on their naked chests to boot," and that he would like to be a "crusader, but I lack the guts." The journalist referred to his war service with a Canadian unit, and said that a medal he received following the shelling of "the ancestral home" was thrown into an open grave at Douaumont.

He likes books and a cheery fire, music and the company of wise men, but falls silent in the company of the latter, experiencing the "peasant's awe for learning," so that "they think me uneducable." Van Paassen said. He has been in the Arctic, and of turning to newspaper work for a living.

Van Paassen was a reporter on the staff of The Constitution for more than a year, writing feature stories, before going to Europe as the Paris correspondent of the New York World and The Constitution. Lately he has contributed material to a large number of papers, including The Constitution.

JACK SAVAGE ATTACKS PUBLIC SERVICE BOARD

Assistant City Attorney Calls on Talmadge to Remove Commissioners.

Removal of the five members of the Georgia public service commission by Governor Eugene Talmadge and their replacement with men who will "carry out the democratic platform on which Governor Talmadge ran" pledging reduction in public utility rates was demanded Tuesday night by Jack C. Savage, assistant city attorney, in a radio address over station WGST as counsel for the Georgia Federation of Labor.

After reciting the history of the case in which the labor forces sought a reduction in electric power rates, Savage said that the governor is authorized by law to remove members of the commission at will and replace them. He called on the public to join the Georgia Federation of Labor in requesting the governor to take such action.

"The democratic platform, on which the governor ran, pledged substantial reductions in utility rates, and demanded that valuations of the companies for rate and tax purposes be the same," Savage said. "The Georgia Power Company pays taxes on $45,000,000 and makes rates on $261,000,000. They claim to have removed the service charge, but they merely have hidden it. The rate on the first 10 kilowatt hours under the service charge was $1.50, and now it is $1.44, the highest rate in the world. The next highest is New Orleans, with $1.16."

Members of the public service commission attacked by Savage are: James A. Perry, chairman; A. J. Woodruff, Perry T. Knight, Walter McDonald and Jule Felton.

It asserted that the American and Polish consulates were collecting accusations made by eastern Jews against nazis.

It was understood that the foreign office agreed the allegations were improper, and it was expected that the press service would publish a correction and would apologize to the consulates general.

"We strongly resent these unwarranted implications and will by proper representations insist on immediate stoppage," said George S. Messersmith, the American consul general.

"Naturally, during the past days the consulate has received, as is its duty, American citizens who complained of mistreatment. Their affidavits were taken and through the foreign office presented to the police presidency."

A large force of police assisted by nazi auxiliaries raided a Jewish quarter in eastern Berlin, searching everywhere for weapons and papers. Streets were closed and pedestrians were halted.

Although the boycott will not be resumed tomorrow, nazi boycott committee headquarters announced that "in the near future all German stores will be supplied with big placards identifying them as such."

The government issued a statement saying it would countenance no interference from Russia, which has protested against recent raids on soviet trade delegation offices in Berlin and Hamburg and on the headquarters of soviet business concerns.

A similar protest came from the Russian ambassador in Berlin.

KOSHER SLAUGHTERING FORBIDDEN IN GERMANY. BERLIN, April 4.—(AP)—The cabinet today approved a measure forbidding kosher slaughtering throughout the nation.

Kosher slaughtering is a ritual peculiar to the Jews. This ritual demands that animals and fowl, to be slaughtered for food in a kosher fashion, must have their windpipes slashed so as to produce an instantaneous loss of consciousness.

In addition, the action must be done by a specially ordained functionary, the shochet.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Expert Bidding

Occasionally situations arise in the play of experts in which bids that appear entirely unimpeachable are made, and yet these bids are absolutely logical, even though one may search the textbooks for their authority. The authority is there nevertheless, implied if not expressed.

In the recent contest for possession of the Goldman cup, emblematic of the Eastern Contract Pair championship, some rather unusual bidding occurred at the table where Messrs. Oswald Jacoby, South, and Samuel Fry Jr., North, held the hands below:

Neither side vulnerable.

East Dealer

♠ 10 8 7
♥ A Q 5
♦ A J 6 3
♣ A 10 8

West Dealer

♠ A Q J 9 2
♥ N 10 8
♦ W 5 4 3
♣ S 9 7 5

The bidding at this table was:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

East South West North
Pass Pass (1) 1 1 1 1
2 2 3 3 (3) Pass 3 4 (4)
3 4 (5) Pass Pass
Pass

1—The hand, it is true, contains 1-2 hour tricks, but as there are no Aces, the policy of "wait and see" is better than a bid.

2—If South's hand is a bust, North can gain nothing by entering the bidding at this point, even with 3-12 honor-tricks in the hand.

3—The hand, it is true, contains 1-2 hour tricks, but as there are no Aces, the policy of "wait and see" is better than a bid.

4—If South's hand is a bust, North can gain nothing by entering the bidding at this point, even with 3-12 honor-tricks in the hand.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: We cannot afford to be married now because of financial affairs. We do not doubt our love for each other, but there is one little thing in the way of complete happiness for us. My husband is a doctor and under my influence he quit a year ago. He tells me he will never begin again. If I didn't believe him I wouldn't consider marrying him, for I have seen too much sorrow as a result of drink. Yet in spite of my faith in his reform, I sometimes am afraid that he will begin again to drink and I am afraid that this delay in our marriage might cause him to lose his grip. Sometimes I think it might be better to go ahead and get married, even though we haven't enough to be comfortable on. In either case we run a risk. Which is the best thing to do?

Answer: A wise woman remarked the other day that the most depressing feature of the times to live in is the loss of a woman, even the breaking of a son or a daughter, under the strain of the times, but the frustrated hopes of young lovers whose plans for marriage were indefinitely postponed and whose bright and sunny outlook on the future was clouded. See how I feel about it. April the young people will not be happy in the sense that we were.

There is truth in her contention, yet you are springing up after being pressed down. It accommodates itself easily to changed conditions, even when the changes involve disappointment. We must all, sooner or later, learn the hard lesson of life, that disappointment is our portion and that we must learn to live with it. It is philosophically and presciently with new hope and faith toward some new goal.

Akron's Memorable Atlanta Visit Recalled by Tragedy on High Seas

Soaring majestically over downtown Atlanta on its southern visit December 16, 1931, the airship Akron brought no hint of tragedy, but left a feeling of good will toward the lighter-than-air service.

Commander R. E. Rosendahl, then commander of the gigantic aircraft, who missed the disaster by his transfer to a new post, exchanged greetings with Georgia's then governor, Richard B. Russell Jr., over the radioophone.

Governor Russell wished the "season's greetings to yourself and crew," and Commander Rosendahl replied, "Thank you very much, governor. Tuesday morning's wrecking job Akron personnel in thanking you for your kind message, extending our heartfelt greetings to you and the citizens of Georgia."

The Akron carried a crew of 12 officers and 51 enlisted men on the Atlanta trip. She afforded a spectacle for thousands of Atlantans who crowded windows, roofs and sidewalks for a glimpse of the aircraft. The ship flew from the base at Lakehurst, N. J., to Charleston, Augusta, Macon, Atlanta, Montgomery, Mobile and New Orleans, returning via Tennessee and Virginia.

Two Georgians were on board the ill-fated craft at the time disaster overtook it. They were Lieutenant Charles H. Callaway, of Clarksville, and Seaman William T. Hill, of Jefferson.

Lieutenant Callaway was a nephew of Brantley Callaway, retired Atlanta business man, who was killed in the Charleston hotel. He was graduated from the naval academy in 1924 and had been on duty at Lakehurst for two years.

Seaman Hill was a home demonstration agent in Habersham county.

First Lady Praises Mrs. Moffett For Courage in Face of Bereavement

By BESS FURMAN.
WASHINGTON, April 4.—(AP)—A courage and faith that drew admiration from a president's wife today sustained Mrs. William A. Moffett, who was on the wrecked dirigible Akron with 70 officers and enlisted men.

"It was quite wonderful," Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said, "that Mrs. Moffett, who has not given up hope, and she says she won't give up hope, should have been able to stand alone at the wheel of her own big steamer, called briefly at the Moffett home on Massachusetts avenue to express her sympathy to the bereaved family."

President Roosevelt already had issued a statement deploring the nation's loss in the midnight disaster of stormy skies.

Mrs. Moffett, not for herself alone, but for the wives of all the men missing, held to the high creed of navy wives—to believe that their men were still alive, and to wait for them, no matter how long it took, to face a crisis without flinching.

AKRON CRASH PROBE PLEDGED BY VINSON

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The house naval affairs committee will make a thorough investigation of the facts and circumstances surrounding the destruction of the airship Akron, Chairman Carl Vinson, of Georgia, said today.

"The nation is stunned by this terrible disaster," he declared, "and the loss of so many brave officers and men is catastrophic."

"Just a year ago the naval affairs committee of the house investigated the wrecking of the USS Thetis, a light cruiser, which was destroyed by a mine off the coast of Japan. The investigation of the Akron, following the hearings, a personal inspection was made of the ship by nine members of the naval affairs committee.

"The committee found from the testimony submitted that 'if there was any poor workmanship or faulty maintenance in the construction of the Akron, the same was corrected before the ship was completed.' The charge of sabotage was fully investigated by the committee as well as by the department of the navy. The investigation concluded that 'while there might have been an attempt at sabotage, information was had in time to prevent anything of this nature occurring to the ship.'"

"The committee went to Lakehurst on February 22, 1932, for the purpose of inspecting the ship and observing her performance. However, just before the ship was to leave the ground, a violent storm broke and the ship was so badly damaged that it was not possible to go on board. Later the committee made a most successful flight in the Akron, which impressed the members with her speed and the quality of her construction. The durability of the Akron has been thoroughly tested and she has just returned from a cruise to Panama."

"Rear Admiral William A. Moffett is reported missing. He was approaching the end of a most distinguished career in the navy, for the past several years he has been chief of the bureau of aeronautics. He was responsible, more than any other officer, for the extraordinary development of aviation in the navy. While the new wrecking disaster, the committee recommended to the secretary of the navy that Admiral Moffett be retained as chief of the bureau of aeronautics until October 31, 1933, when he would have reached the statutory age for retirement, after 47 years of service."

More Cool Weather Forecast for Today

"It won't be long now before the thermometer will be recording summer-time eights and above, but in the meantime, we are in for another day of temperatures up to 75 degrees and a brief spell of cool weather," said George W. Mindling, United States meteorologist.

Railroad Is Ordered To Furnish Beer Car

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 4.—(AP) A temporary injunction requiring the Louisville & Nashville railroad to furnish a freight car for an intrastate shipment of 3.2 per cent beer was granted today in Jefferson circuit court here.

Counsel for the railroad said they would appeal the case at once with the view of obtaining an opinion from the court of appeals by Friday, the day the recently legalized beer is to go on sale.

The petition, seeking the injunction, declared that the legality of the new brew, was believed to be the first action of its kind in the country.

ORIGINAL AKRON ALSO MET DISASTER OFF JERSEY COAST

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 4.—(AP)—The navy dirigible Akron, which dropped into the Atlantic ocean early this morning, was the second airship of that name to meet disaster off the New Jersey coast. In 1912, the forerunner of the modern queen of the skies was destroyed a short distance out from this city, carrying to death five men.

Although the 1912 Akron would have been a giant, it was a giant. It was 238 feet long, with an extreme diameter of 45 feet. The framework was of four girders, cylindrical in shape and cabin, weighed about 14,000 pounds. The fuel tanks carried 80,000 pounds of gasoline and the four engines developed 27 horsepower.

With the 1912 edition, Melvin Vaniman and a crew of four had hopes of crossing the Atlantic. On July 2, of that year, the ship left its mooring place here.

A magazine article of what followed described the tragedy in this fashion: "The Akron, an altitude of 1,000 feet and only a short distance out to sea, a sudden puff of smoke was seen at one end of the bag. In a minute the ship was in flames. The crew watched the ship from the shore as the craft broke away from the envelope and plunged downward. In a descent something which appeared to be the body of a man shot out to the left, the wreckage and struck the water before the rest of the ship could be seen."

To Gain, a Child must

EAT

Mothers, it is not the stomach, but a bowel condition that keeps so many children from eating.

Parents shouldn't coax a child to eat. Nature knows best. Healthy children are hungry. If pale, listless, and without appetite, they have stasis. Not to correct this sluggishness is inexcusable. Read what the "California treatment" is doing for ailing, sickly children all over the United States!

Nature provides a simple remedy for stasis. The only "medicine" required is some pure California syrup of figs. It stimulates a sluggish child's colon muscles and has no effect whatever on the faculty of intestines which strong purgatives paralyze.

Start this wonderful treatment today. Any druggist has California syrup of figs, all bottled, with full directions. Use enough at first to cleanse the clogged colon of every bit of poison and hard waste. Then just a little twice a week until the child's appetite, color, weight and spirits tell you the stasis is gone. It may take four weeks if a child is ill run down, but isn't it well worth it, to have constipation conquered?

CAUTION

Some stores will try to sell a substitute, even when it is for a child! Be sure you get the real California Syrup of Figs.

Folly Island :-:

By Wallace Irwin

SYNOPSIS. Bart Burgess, while marooned in a catboat on Peculiar bay 50 miles from his home island home in Wyalitville, meets a girl in a canoe who lives on a nearby island. Bart learns that she is one of the Bayleys, who have lived in seclusion on the island 15 years. The father travels less than a week later. Bart's father, who was a bigamist, dies suddenly from a heart attack. He leaves a fortune to provide for the Bayleys. Bart calls on Mrs. Bayley, posing as a law-abiding citizen, a distant relative and recent divorcee. The Bayleys visit New York and Bart sees them. Bart's father, known as "Nosey Inky," has invited Alice to Wyalitville. Bart tells Alice of his engagement. Alice and her mother are guests of the Warrens for the annual Wyalitville flow. Bart sees a photograph of Trevor Burgess, Bart's father, and when Bart August and Inky Warren of stumbling on his father's secret and inviting Mrs. Constance Wyalitville to expose the intrigue. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

have called up Lora; she, at least, would have known where Inky was, and Inky had taken the Bayleys into town. I'm free now, he thought going up the hill. . . .

But the sense of freedom was not enduring. He stared ahead of him, facing undeniable obligations. Just now, merely by talking with a re-vengeful old woman, he had lifted the cloud from his mother's life and his. Now he must sink back into the rut which he had so carefully dug for himself before Alice came to Wyalitville. This girl with the odd history, whose every appearance, however painful, had touched him in a spot which Lora Sackett could never reach.

Now what could he bring to her? No love, certainly. Only justice. And in the name of justice where could he find her in the few days which remained before, as a bridegroom, he sailed for ports which had no more charm for him than for the girl he had chosen to share his stateroom?

Bart thought of the simplest of all expedients, to write Alice a letter. But where should he send it? To Folly Island? It might be there for weeks. The Bayleys might never return to Folly Island; they must both of them have been in a desperate frame of mind when they left Wyalitville so suddenly. Bart considered. He might go out to Folly Island again. But that would take a day of time and there were so few days left—

He found himself turning his car back toward Wyalitville. Lora should be home now; and at the risk of quarreling with her again, he must ask some questions. Some sixth sense seemed to be guiding him toward her at that moment, as though her voice had called to him out of thin air, hinting at a solution.

Viola, never failing in her capacity for dramatics, cautiously opened the door of Mrs. Lind's cottage, then sprang back as though a black cat had crossed her path. "O, Mr. Burgess," she giggled, "it's yew. Won't you come in, Mr. Burgess?"

She was overcordial, acting the hostess.

"Is Mrs. Sackett back yet?" he inquired.

"No, Mr. Burgess. But Mrs. Lind, she's home."

He didn't want to see Mrs. Lind, but it was too late now to retreat. Somewhere from within he could hear her strangely melancholy voice calling him.

"O, Bart! Is that you? Do come in, Bart."

He found her standing in a chaos of renovation; her hair was untidy, her sleeves rolled back; she looked hot and tired. Workmen who had been redecorating the two front rooms, preparatory to a home wedding, were carrying away pieces of scaffolding. The little woman seemed so rumpled and wild; she was unused to housework, and this extra expense must have been a great burden for her to carry.

"Don't you need another helper?" asked Bart, somehow sorry for her as he kissed the cheek she offered.

"I don't see how I'll get through with it all," she complained. "Presents are coming in from everywhere. People are being so nice." Puffing, tired, she seemed scarcely to know what she was saying. "Bart, have you seen the lovely tea service the Sacketts sent her?"

"They always come across." Dully he followed her into the pantry and saw the jumble of silver and porcelain and unidentified what-you-call-ums, piled to the ceiling, stacked in every corner. Dully he admired the Sacketts' tribute, piece by piece. His eye lit on a cocktail churn, solid silver and twice as large as the frivolous class one that had proved his undoing.

"I'll bet Inky sent that one," he ventured.

"No, Colonel and Mrs. Warren." "All in the family."

But suddenly Mrs. Lind faced him, panting, undone, disheveled by the dirty work of the last few days. Her weak little mouth was quivering strangely.

"Bart, do you know when Lora's coming home?"

"Lora?" He frowned, puzzled. "She told me she was coming back today—on the early train. But hasn't she telephoned?"

"Not a word since she left. Bart, she was going to have two dresses sent out by special delivery. They didn't come. I've phoned her dress-makers, and she hasn't been in. She was going to stay in Elsie Fritchard's apartment while Elsie was in Pittsburgh. Bart I'm so worried—"

"Didn't you get Elsie's apartment?"

"Yes," Mrs. Lind was holding on to herself with all her tiny will. "Some strange woman answered the phone and said that Lora—Lora hasn't been back in a night."

Queer, queer people, these women, Alice in hiding somewhere—and now Lora.

"Probably she's decided to go to a hotel and didn't take the trouble to let you know. Lora's that way sometimes," he told her unconvincedly.

"She's been so strange lately."

Mrs. Lind stood appealing to him with her little round eyes. She was wondering how far she could go without offending him. "Bart, has there been anything—"

Then she stiffened and turned toward the pantry door. "What is it now, Viola?" Viola was smirking there, drama in her very bones.

"Miss Lora's on the phone, Mrs. Lind."

"O, of course." It was plain to see that his future mother-in-law was already regretting her candor. "Wasn't it silly of me!"

Live Rabbits for 10 Children
Drawing Best Bunny Picture

Kathleen Burke, motion picture star, heard that Atlanta boys and girls were going to draw pictures of bunnies and here is her idea of how a bunny looks. The Constitution and Georgia theater will give away on Easter ten live bunnies to ten lucky boys and girls of Atlanta.

What little boy and girl in Atlanta wouldn't like to have a real white bunny for Easter? The Constitution and the Georgia theater will have free to tell boys and girls in Atlanta that the contest is open to all rabbits for Easter, if they, the boys and girls, will draw a picture of a rabbit.

There will be an opportunity for Atlanta boys and girls to try their hands as artists. Of course in a contest of this kind, professional work will be the exception. The drawing, like a bunny, drawn on paper, will be a rabbit that looks like, "I'm drawing a bunny on a piece of paper," says the boys, but pencil or ink drawing will have just as much chance as others. Send or bring the drawing to the Georgia State Capitol building, closes on Friday, April 14, at noon.

As soon as the contest closes, the bunny editor and his assistants will select the winners. Easter morning a bunny will be de-

MIX ADMITS WIFE

"I was washed out of his window," he said. "He may have gone out ahead of me."

"There was no noise or confusion of any kind," Wiley said in telling of his last minutes in the airship.

"Orders were given in a low voice and carried out efficiently. There was no conversation of any kind after I gave the order to stand by for a crash."

Wiley said that after he had been swimming about ten minutes, he would see a number of swimmers, although he could still hear them. Up to that time he had seen other struggling swimmers.

LOS ANGELES, April 4. (AP)—The assertion he was shot in the arm in 1924 by his wife, the present Mrs. Victoria Forde De Olazabadi, was made in court here today by Tom Mix, screen star.

Mix was testifying in his own behalf in his wife's attempt to collect five $10,000 promissory notes. She now is the wife of an Argentine count in San Francisco.

Records showed that at the time of the shooting Mix reported he had accidentally wounded himself.

"It was in March, 1924," he testified.

He said he could not see the Akron after he was in the water five minutes.

"In the flashes of lightning I could see that she was drifting away," he said. "It was raining hard."

He repeated the assertion that there had been no explosion or fire aboard the Akron, and he was asked if he had any idea of the cause of the crash, since he had said that it was not struck by lightning.

"She might have been struck by lightning without our knowing it," he stated. "There was lightning all about, but, in my opinion, she was not struck."

He said that he had not been notified. "Mrs. Mix had been looking to the harbor with some friends, down at the pier," he said. "I came, and there were some people there."

"One of the rigolos picked up a photograph showing me jumping from the window to a girl," he said. "Mrs. Mix, if I were you I'd have my husband's head examined. I didn't like the remark and I didn't like the picture."

"The argument started over that. "Mrs. Mix began to throw things at me, but I just turned them aside. She said I was a coward for not coming at me, and the first thing I knew she had the gun."

"She shot and hit me in the arm. She shot me in the chest. One bullet lodged in a shaft. I jumped up and took the
